The Third Party Idea.
It does not seem possible for Republicans to please the Third Party men. If they nominate a candidate who is not committed on the liquor question, the po litical Prohibitionists say they have dodged. If they nominate an avowed tem-own State of Maine, thus expresses his views and his regrets:

We shall cast more votes this year than ever before. The largest Prohibition vote eyer polled in this State (4,375) was given to Hichborn in 1860. We shall do better than that this year, but our vote will not affect the result. Bodwell will undoubtedly be elected. We were disappointed at the result of the Republican Convention. We hoped to see Hamilia noministed. We should then have said the Republican party has now openly committed itself against the enforcement of the prohibitory law, and we would have been able to secure a vote large enough to leave the Republican candidates in the minority. Bodwell himself is a temperance man, and will no doubt get the votes of many strong Prohibitionists, and our issue this year is confined to the general policy of the Republican party on this question.

Until lately I have believed that the Republican could not elect another President, but I now think it possible that they will succreed once more. The Democrats are showing a remarkable capacity for blundering, which may give the Republican party, in spite of its short-comings, another lease of life.

This is at least an honest confession. If lin, son of Hannibal Hamlin, the party could have been denounced as "openly committed against the enforcement of the prohibitory law." But the Republican party chose for Governor Mr. Bodwell, a flat-footed temperance man, and the New York Mugwumps have blamed Mr. Blaine for not overriding the party will and making Hamlin a present of the nomination.

in Maine. General Beaver, the Republican choice for Governor of Pennsylvania, is a strong temperance man, but this does not matter with the political Prohibition-lats. Beaver is to be antogan'zed with a sore-head Republican who hopes to defeat the Republican ticket and has no expectation of being elected himself. In Maine or in Pennsylvania or in Ohio the highest success the Third Party hopes for is to enable the Democratic party to triumph.

In West Virginia the Third Party has yet to show its strength. The most it can do here is to strengthen the hold of the Democracy, which is not supposed to have any strong inclination to the Prohibition side, though it is encouraging the move ment as a political manœuvre to make Republican success more difficult. There are some good people who do not take this view of the question, but the politicians who are directing the movement under-

In the approaching campaign the Democratic managers will endeavor to have a Prohibition ticket run in every Republican district, that the Prohibitionists may divide and the Democracy conquer.
Seeing that Republicans in the Legislature have been practically solid for the submission of a prohibitory amendment, it might be thought that Prohibitionists would exert themselves to increase, not to cut down, the Republican vote. And lican district, that the Prohibitionists to cut down, the Republican vote. And the non-partisan Prohibitionists are, but I must marry," replied the child.

by the Third Party managers they must have a father for my children." but by the Third Party managers they are not regarded as orthodox or indeed of average honesty.

A Thought for Mr. Randall.

Mr. Randall is placing his party in an uncomfortable attitude before the country. He has not only helped the Republicans to strangle the tariff bill which had the approval of the overwhelming majority of Democrats in Congress, but he jority of Democrats in Congress, but he pute comes forward with a bill in which he admits that the Republican policy, of protection to home industries is right.

If on this momentous question Democratic party is wrong, as Mr. Randall says it is, and the Republican party right, as he says it is, how can Mr. Ran dall ask the people of his district to re-elect him as a Democrat? And how can he consistently oppose a Republican in his district? If he desires to continue the Republican policy of protection, and to give the country an assurance of security from chronic tariff-tinkering, the greatest public service he can perform will be to add his vote and his ability and his influence to the side which he believes to

Mr. Randall would be well received by the Republican party, which entertains a at the first table, for he is too strong to be laid aside; and, moreover, Republicans are not in the habit of putting on long probation a remark of putting on long probation a remark. bation a new-comer of character. It is unnecessary to remind Mr. Randall that even now he holds his seat in Congress by Republican grace. Any Legislature in redistricting the State could cut him off without a district, but the idea has never and Charles Menkemeller.

As often as the dis tricts have been new-modeled a Republi can Legislature has provided for Mr.

Randall. This is referred to merely t show that the Republican party has al ways treated Mr. Randall well, and the past may be taken as an earnest of the We do not forget that Mr. Randall is a candidate for the Presidency. That is an honorable ambition, and our candid belief is that Mr. Randall will have it satisfied as soon through the instrumentality of the Republican party as by the par tiality of the Democracy.

dodged. If they nominate an avowed temperance man some other fault is found. General Neal Dow, the original Prohibitionist, commenting on the outlook in his own State of Maine, thus expresses his views and his regrets:

We shall cast more votes this year than ever before. The largest Prohibition you see properly of the largest Prohibition you see properly in the State (4,375) was given bread.

Fumes of sulphur are frequently recom-mended as a means of ridding house plants of insects, but this must not be under-stood to imply ignition, as in the case of tobacco, for this would destroy plant life as well. The sulphur should be placed under hotsun or in pipes and flues and warmed to a degree less than ignition, when the vapor given off will be found objectionable to insects.

In Pennsylvania it is about the same as by our host as Uncle Billy came riding up by our host as Uncle Billy came runing up through the steady pour on a mule. The animal was placed in the stable, and as the two men entered the house our host observed:

"Well, Uncle Billy, how'll you trade "mulea?"

"Oh, 'bout $3 tew boot," was the answer.

They returned to the stables and talked until noon. Then we had dinner, and they talked until 4 o'clock. The rain let up a little bit then and we went out to see a cave, leaving them talking mule. We returned at 0 and they were still 44-45. We had supper, and the interrupted conversation was resumed and kept up until 9 o'clock. We went off to bed with Uncle Billy saying:

Billy saying:
"Tell ye what I'll dew. I'll trade fur $3

It thundered about midnight and I woke up and heard that mule talk still golog. At 6 o'clock I got up. Uncle Billy was just riding away.

"Well, how did you come out?" I asked of our host,

"Beat him down to $2.75," he replied.

"So you save 2 shillings?"
"Exactly, though I wasn't working for that. It was the principle of the thing I looked at."
